How to vote

Provide photo ID

State your name and residence and provide Photo ID to one of the election officials, who will find your name and address on the voting list and announce them publicly.

Sign the ballot application in front of the election official.

The election official will provide you with a ballot and a secrecy sleeve. Note: In a primary election you will be given an application and a ballot corresponding to your registered political party. If you are not affiliated with a party, you may choose which party primary to vote in today.

Cast your ballot

The election official will direct you to the first available voting booth.

Mark your ballot using the special marking pen provided in the voting booth. Connect the head and tail of the arrow next to the candidate or question of your choice. Do not use a ball-point pen because your vote may not be counted.

Put your voted ballot into the secrecy sleeve and take it to the voting machine. Take the ballot out of the sleeve and put it into the designated ballot slot on the machine so it can be counted.

Do you need help?

If you need help, let an election official know so they can demonstrate how to mark your ballot and answer any questions.

If you need help because of blindness, disability, or an inability to read or write English, you may choose a person to help you in the voting booth, after completing a form.

Your assistant may not be your employer or an agent of your employer or union.

Restrictions

The number of people, except election officials, allowed in the voting area is equal to the number of voting booths. All other voters must form a line just outside the area, but cannot leave the polling place with an official ballot.

You have 10 minutes to complete your ballot, after which you may be asked to leave if other voters are waiting. If you refuse to leave, an election official may ask that you be removed.

You are allowed to bring campaign material into the polling place if you are voting. Otherwise, no campaign signs or literature may be displayed or distributed inside the polling place or within 50 feet of the entrance to the building.

Power and duties

Election officials at this polling place

Supervisors

This is the official who is seated at a table when you check-in. They will ask you for your name and address and give you a ballot application to complete. They are required by law to publicly announce your name and address in a loud and clear voice. You will be given a secrecy sleeve and a ballot and directed to the first available voting booth.

Clerk

This official keeps track of all supplies, ballots, and ballot applications at the polling place. They also manage provisional voting and any voters who need to change their address. This official also has a master directory of all registered voters in this city/town, and can direct voters to their correct polling place with an official street directory. They are also responsible for accounting for all ballots and applications when the polling place closes.

Warden (Moderator)

This official has general supervision of this polling place, while being vigilant and responsible to prevent any voter from voting more than once, while making sure voters form proper lines. If a voter needs help marking their ballot because of a disability or they do not speak or read English, this official will assign a pair of Supervisors to help the voter if needed. This official is responsible for the voting equipment and tallying the votes when the polls close. If necessary this official may have any person removed from the polling place that is violating election law or disrupting the voting process.

Greeter

When you enter the polling place you may be approached by an official who will ask you for your name and address just to make sure you are in the correct polling place. You will still be asked to provide this information to a Supervisor when check-in.

Provisional voting

A provisional ballot will not be counted today. You will be given the opportunity to vote a provisional ballot if:

- Your name is not on the voting list at this polling place
- Our records say that you already applied for a mail ballot
- An election official or party watcher challenges your identity
- You can't provide the necessary identification to vote

An election official will give you a provisional ballot along with an envelope. After you have marked your ballot, seal it in the envelope to keep your votes private. Your ballot will be delivered to the local Board of Canvassers, who will check your eligibility to vote in this election, and decide within 48 hours if it can be counted or not.

If you want to find out if your provisional ballot was counted, visit <http://www.elections.ri.gov> or scan the QR Code below with your smartphone to check on the status. You can also call your Board of Canvassers. You will need to provide the provisional ballot ID number from your receipt and your last name.

S-69 Rev. 6/2014

Voter fraud!

Penalties for voter fraud

You must be registered to vote from your actual place of residence.

Any person who fraudulently votes or attempts to vote in the name of some other person, whether that name is that of a person living or dead, or of a fictitious person, shall be guilty of voter fraud.

Voter fraud is a felony, and punishable by up to 10 years in prison and/or a minimum fine of $1,000 and a maximum fine of $5,000 for each offense.

Voting rights

Eligibility to vote

Rhode Island residents who are at least 18 years old, United States citizens, and who have registered to vote 30 days before an election are entitled to vote. Those residents who have not registered 30 days prior to a presidential election, may register to vote and cast a ballot for president and vice-president at their city or town halls or other designated location on Election Day.

Voting rights

All United States citizens otherwise qualified to vote, shall be entitled to vote in any election without regard to race, creed or color. Voting standards shall be consistently applied throughout the state. No person shall be deprived the right to vote due to any registration error, not material to their qualification to vote under state law. No test may be required as a condition of voting.

Reporting violations

If you feel that any of your voting rights have been violated under state or federal law, contact the State Board of Elections at 50 Branch Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island 02904; telephone (401) 222-2345; website www.elections.ri.gov

Voters who registered to vote by mail

If you registered to vote for the first-time in Rhode Island and submitted your application by mail on or after January 1, 2003, under federal law you may be required to provide one of the following IDs if you didn't include the information with your application:

(Name and photo must match voting list and voter):

A RI driver license; RI voter ID card; U.S. passport; identification issued by a U.S. educational institution; U.S. military identification card; identification card issued by the United States or the State of RI; government-issued medical card; employee identification card; identification card issued by a commercial establishment; credit card or debit card; health club identification card; insurance plan identification card; public housing identification card.

B. Non-Photo ID

(Name and current address must be on document and must match voting list AND Document must be dated after last General Election):

Utility bill; bank statement; document issued by a local, federal, or state government agency; lease or rental statement; student identification card or tuition statement or bill issued by a recognized U.S. educational institution; insurance plan card.

Presenting one of the underlined ID types listed above will allow you to vote a regular ballot today. Presenting one of the other ID types will require that you to vote a provisional ballot.

S-74 Rev. 6/2014

Leaving?

Don't take your ballot!

It is a felony to leave the polling place with an official ballot.

You may either cast your ballot or surrender it to an election official at this polling place who will void it.

A designated Supervisor

- One Supervisor will be designated by the Warden/Moderator to deliver the memory pack and red bag immediately to the Board of Canvassers.
- The designated Supervisor does not need to return to the polling place.

Closing the polling place

- All posters must be taken down and placed in the blue supply box.
- Put all unused forms and other supplies into the blue supply box.
- Close all voting booths, and place them next to the Eagle and AutoMARK in a secure area.

Closing the polling place

- Ballots are hard to see in the Eagle so help the Moderator remove all the ballots. Tip: Use a flashlight app on your smartphone.
- Help the Moderator put the AutoMARK back into the black case.
- You must wait until everything is done before you are dismissed by the Warden/Moderator.

End of the presentation

You will now be issued a short quiz.

When you are finished with the quiz,
turn it in at the table where you signed-in before the class.

Read your books and take them and these slides to the polling place with you!
